

Quantum Leap... Why be on QL? How is it exciting?

I get to be on weekly team calls, and sometimes I get the opportunity to lead one. I get to cause leaders. I get to contribute and be generous, listening.

I get to have a committed colleague, or two or three or more, depending on the rigor I intend to put into our quarter. How much do I want to stretch myself? How much do I contribute to someone new on the QL team? I know who I am for my committed colleagues, and in the process, I get to harvest a little piece of them for me.

I get to do the damn statistics. I get to resist it and report my statistics anyway. I get to report my statistics without making it mean anything. Statistics are designed to remind me of the results I provide for myself and our team. I get to see it, measure it, and move it.

I get to play with amazing, powerful, influential people who I can't wait to see and be with.

I get to be held to a standard of T2 listening and beyond.

I get to play my life - my Games In The World. ALL 100 of them.

I get to fall down, and I get to get back up again.

I get to know Myself as great, greater than I was.

I get to have my world be in a constant inquiry of what it takes for our world to be workable, not only for me - but for every human being with whom I come in contact.

I get to meet new people from new places and have their experiences be my experiences.

I get to give myself fully, without any makeup, without looking good, and still feel like I look like a million dollars because your eyes see me. And I get to see you.

I get to see growth and people taking their Quantum Leaps as we step out onto the skinny branches and being cause in the matter.

I get to be reminded every day that I matter. I get to have compassion and practice patience for those who have not yet unwrapped their Magical Quantum Leap Capes.